It is not my purpose in this e-book to glorify Satan by speaking of his powers and the things his demons do to torment humans and make their lives miserable. Rather, it is my intention to inform people who may be victims of demonic harassment what warning signs to watch for.

In this e-book, to the best of my ability, I intend to include every type of spirit harassment I've encountered either personally or through harassment victims I've worked with (over the phone, via Skype, and/or by e-mail). Types and severity of demonic harassment are limited only by the imaginations and personalities of the harassing spirits.

Harassment From A to Z

In the course of my former ministry helping victims of demonic harassment break free, I have encountered Spirit Harassments and Manifestations ranging from A to Z.

When I use the term "Spirit Harassments" I'm referring to things spirits typically do to cause problems. Any list of types of spirit harassment would, by its nature, overlap with the types of manifestations that typically occur when spirits are cast out of or away from a person.

I'm not talking about spirits of people who've died. Spirits of the dead do not hang around on earth to harass us. Given that the Bible makes no mention of God's having created spirits other than angels, and given what the book of Revelation tells us about the war in Heaven in which millions of angels sided with Satan and were thrown out of Heaven down to the earth, it is my belief that the spirits who harass humans are fallen angels. Interestingly enough, during an exorcism I performed, one of the departing spirits identified itself as a fallen angel.

And yes, I said types of harassment and manifestations are limited only by the imagination and personalities of the harassing spirits. That's right, each spirit has a distinctive personality just as humans and animals do. Some are definitely more cruel than others. Some are even humorous. It also appears that some are more or less powerful than others.

According to what harassing spirits have told me through the mouths of their victims, there is a definite hierarchy in the spirit realm, and each rank works in very large groups. I have found this to be true.

In the case of a man who had literally thousands of harassing spirits who belonged to the classification of Duke, the spirits finally left when I addressed the Duke and his underlings, but still others were refusing to leave. I had addressed them every way I could think of, commanding them in Jesus' name to leave, but they were still refusing to go. Finally one spirit got perturbed with my taking so long, and spoke through the man: “You keep telling us to leave, but you’re calling us by the wrong name. Military System we are.” When I addressed them as a military system, they left.

Note: In the spirit realm many things are done backwards or in reverse. This accounts for the reversal of the terms. Thus, “We are a Military System” becomes “Military System we are.”

I was a little confused by the term “military system” at first. But after thinking it through, it made sense. Many of the angels in Heaven are warriors. Satan and his army fought against the archangel Michael and the warrior angels still loyal to God. Apparently after being cast down to the earth, Satan and at least part of his angels retained their military ranking. You may recall that when Jesus cast the demons out of a man who was possessed, Jesus asked “What is your name?” The leader of the possessive group of demons replied, “I am legion. For we are many.” (Legion is a military term representing over 4,000 soldiers.)

Now let’s get to the subject of this E-Book: types of demonic harassment starting with the letter A, and progressing through the alphabet to the letter Z.

A

A.D.D.: Of course not all A.D.D. is spirit related. But for people who have dabbled in any aspect of the occult or been victims of abuse and are therefore also victims of demonic harassment, spirits are often at the root of this condition. The same is true of A.D.H.D., O.C.D., BiPolar, and Hyperactivity. In addition to spiritual entities of the actual conditions, there are spiritual entities of each of the symptoms.

I have worked with victims of BiPolar Disorder, O.C.D. and A.D.H.D. who were able to be taken off their medication after the spiritual entities causing the condition had been cast away.

Aches of any type: If you have aches or other pains that don't seem to be related to exercise or strain, and doctors can find no other cause, you would be well advised to take stock of your life to identify anything that could have invited demonic spirits, and with them demonic harassment. Harassment victims I've worked with have in many cases experienced mild to severe headaches and/or muscle and body aches and pains linked to spirit harassment.

One lady I worked with had daily migraines. After going through the necessary steps preceding spirit cast aways, we addressed any spirits who may have been responsible for or contributed to her migraines. The spirits manifested by giving her a doozie. Through God in Jesus' name, I cast them away. From that point on, the woman had no further migraines. I have since encountered countless harassment victims who suffered from spirit induced Migraines, as well as Sinus, Vascular and Tension headaches.

Apparitions: Demonic spirits appear in many forms, from ghosts to animals to inanimate objects. – A favorite way for sprits to appear (other than orbs or fleeting shadows) is as the "ghost":of a dead friend or loved one. They may look, sound, and even smell like the dead loved one smelled when she was alive – may even be privy to information you think only the dead loved one could have known. But that doesn't change the fact that they're demons.

A friend of mine told me her dead mother had come to visit her. She said the room had been filled with love in her "mother's" presence. The apparition had looked exactly like her mother, except for the fact that it seemed to have light emanating from within. I told my friend this was not the spirit of her mother. It was a demon, and I told her what to do if and when her "mother's ghost" made another appearance.

When the "ghost" re-appeared a few weeks later, Ruth followed my advice. The instant she said the words of the prayer, the beautiful face of "her mother" melted away into the face of a demon, and then it disappeared. This does not mean that Ruth's mother had turned into a demon after she died. It simply means that a demonic spirit had assumed her appearance in an effort to deceive Ruth into believing that spirits of the dead can visit the living..

Demonic spirits won't even hesitate to appear as Jesus or Mary. "Jesus" once appeared to me right in the middle of my living room. He was kneeling on the carpet moving the tip of his finger around as if He were writing in sand. At that point I wasn't yet doing cast aways, but I had no unsevered links to the occult, so I said an anti-harassment prayer: "Father, in Jesus' name, if this is a demon, please make it leave." The spirit pretending to be Jesus instantly disappeared.

On another occasion, a spirit appeared to me as my dog. It came into the bedroom at night, jumped into bed with me, nuzzled its way under the covers, and began licking my knee. Its tongue felt rough, and a little dry – exactly the way my own dog’s tongue feels after it’s been licking for five minutes or more. It didn’t occur to me that this wasn’t my dog. I got out of bed and called to him to “Come,” intending to put him to bed in his kennel. (I couldn’t imagine how he got out of the kennel in the first place.) When I got to the room the kennel was in, my dog was in the kennel fast asleep, and the door was securely fastened. The “dog” who had licked my knee was a demonic spirit posing as my Chihuahua.

A woman I worked with had a young daughter who claimed there was a monster in her closet. This monster would come out at night and stand at the foot of the little girl’s bed growling and snarling. The mother had told the little girl time and again that this was just her imagination. She had looked in the closet and shown her daughter there was nothing there. But the little girl insisted. She was terrified. (Spirits often appear to one person, while refusing to appear to another.)

When I told this little girl, “I’m a lady who knows about monsters and scary things and how to get rid of them,” she poured out her story – including details she hadn’t even told her mother. I helped this little girl reject and denounce any spirits that had come to her from anything her mommy or daddy might have done. Then I had her and her mother go upstairs to her bedroom and open the closet.

The mother was afraid to open the closet door, now that I’d told her that her daughter was very likely telling her the truth, and the spirit simply hadn’t shown itself to anyone else. But, connected to me by telephone, she opened it. When I cast the closet monster out through God in Jesus' name, the little girl saw it leave. The mother felt it brush past her.

A radio host who had me as a guest on his show told me of a minister friend who works only with people who believe themselves to have been "victims of alien abduction." In each case when this minister has addressed demonic spirits who have masqueraded as aliens and given their victims the illusion of being abducted, demonic spirits have manifested.

I once saw a spirit appear in the form of a banner of Betty Boop stretched across the archway between the dining and living rooms.. On another occasion, one appeared as a 2" x 4" propped against the bedroom door so no one could enter or leave the room.

There seems to be no end to the way that spiritual entities can choose to appear.

Appliances breaking down: It goes without saying that appliances break down from natural causes. But when all the appliances in the house start to blow, and the electrician can't locate the cause, it may be demonic harassment.

Many harassment victims I've worked with have reported their microwaves, food processors, and toasters burning out. When they replaced them, the new ones have burned out as well. With some harassment victims this had happened numerous times - unrelated to electrical problems. Once the spirits causing the problem had been ousted, there were no further problems with appliances.

The same is true for harassment victims I've worked with who experienced having light bulbs blow out everywhere they go. Prior to working with me, they had thought they had an electrical charge around them (unrelated to demonic harassment) that affected lights wherever they went.

Attic Noises: It's not uncommon for harassment victims to hear the sound of voices or crying, coming from the direction of the attic. For variety, sometimes the spirits will make the sound of footsteps.

Cruel as it may be, spirits have been known to torment women who've miscarried by making the distant sound at night of a baby crying outside the window or upstairs in the attic.

Autism (spirit induced): Not all Autism is related to spirits, but some is. Children of spirit-induced Autism I've worked with have typically had spirits of Learning Disability, Isolation, Pica, Stemming, Speech Retardation, Memory Blockage, Incontinence, ADHD, ADD, OCD, and Hyperactivity. In addition, they had spirits for each of the symptoms for each of these conditions.

Spirit-induced Autism is one of the most difficult types of harassment to deal with because there are so many groups of spirits involved, and because they hide in so many ways.

Automatic Drawing:

An harassment victim I once worked with experienced having a spirit take control of the pencil she was doodling with and draw a picture of itself. She sent the picture to me as an e-mail attachment. It was a crude attempt to duplicate the picture on the front of my book "Betrayed by Her Guardian Angel." You can see this picture on the Spirit Guides page of my website at staciespielman.com.

Automatic Painting:

A special on T.V. several years ago told of a boy who did automatic painting. He didn't know how he did the paintings. An unseen force would take control of his hand with the paintbrush, and paint very fast without his even knowing what he was painting. The finished paintings sold for thousands of dollars.

When I had my ministry, I wished I could get in touch with that boy and tell him what was really happening. I'm certain his parents or grandparents must have dabbled in some aspect of the occult that would have given spirits the right to come into their son's life.

Automatic Typing:

Numerous harassment victims have reported having spirits take control of their hands on the keyboard when they attempted to write to me. Only through stubborn persistence have they been able to type the words they intended to say in their message. One teen-aged girl was writing a message to a friend on My Space, when a spirit caused her fingers to type the words "F--- You" and send the message without her having clicked on Send.

B

Bite: I have known of harassment victims who've had bite marks appear on an arm or leg as if a spirit has bitten them. I once had the feeling that I'd been bitten, but no bite marks appeared. A man who was a victim of severe sexual harassment reported having an unseen force bite his penis and his big toe!

Harassing spirits often affect family pets, causing them to growl at their owners – or even bite. Our Chihuahua was not a biter. He had never bitten until the vet put a word curse on him by assuring me “He will bite! From that point on, we had a problem with his – out of nowhere – attacking and biting my husband. This would be preceded by a low growl, and baring his teeth.

If I was present, I would immediately say “In Jesus’ name I bind you and ask God to bind you in Heaven as well.” The instant I’d completed the phrase, Peppy would return to normal and start licking my husband’s arm. If I wasn’t present, Peppy would bite him.

It took dozens of cast aways from various perspectives to finally be free of the problem. (In case you’re wondering why my husband didn’t address this behavior himself, it’s because he doesn’t feel comfortable doing that sort of thing.

Bizarre Behavior often accompanies demonic possession. I worked with a woman whose husband refused to speak to her and their daughter for days on end, frequently left his truck parked in unfamiliar neighborhoods with the doors unlocked and his wallet clearly visible on the seat, often demanded to have sex immediately following a hurtful quarrel, and was consumed with self hatred, dating back to his childhood. This man had dropped out of high school without graduating, been fired from nearly every job he’d ever had, and had three failed marriages under his belt before Corinne came into his life. When Tom finally went off the deep end and went berserk, Corinne called me with a desperate plea for help.

In the course of spirit cast aways, it was discovered that Tom was possessed by twenty-four groups of demons. The top strong man of one of the groups identified itself as Murder.

Bladder: Demonic spirits have a ball messing with the bladder. Chief among the types of bladder harassment are urine leakage. This is not to say that all urine leakage is spirit related.

Blemishes: There are of course natural causes for facial blemishes, but there are also blemishes caused or exacerbated by spirit harassment. These include (but may not be limited to) rashes, acne, chin hair, moles, sebaceous cysts, and warts.

On a personal note, before I was born, my grandfather developed warts all over his face and body. He lived on a farm, and rarely had occasion to drive to the city to visit a doctor. For reasons he never shared with me, he consulted with a witch about the warts, and was given a ritual to perform that involved throwing salt over his shoulder periodically throughout the day. He followed the witch's advice, and the warts miraculously disappeared. This was because the warts had been caused by demonic spirits, and the spirits went along with the game. In other words, they stopped the harassment to make my grandfather believe in the powers of this witch.

I have encountered several cases of sebaceous and other types of cysts that went away only after the spirits who'd caused them were cast away in Jesus' name.

Blindness: We all know of cases of blindness that have been caused by accidents or disease. And psychiatrists talk of hysterical blindness related to trauma. But I once encountered blindness as a spirit manifestation when I was working with a woman, casting away the spirits that had been harassing her and her family. This woman went temporarily blind in one eye. Fortunately she didn't panic. Through God in Jesus' name, we cast away the spirits that were causing the blindness, and her vision returned to normal.

Another woman who was experiencing blurred vision and gradual deterioration of her eyesight had spirits of Macular Degeneration who were causing her vision to deteriorate. I'm not saying all Macular Degeneration is spirit related. But in this woman's case, it was.

Blood: It is not uncommon for spirits to give the illusion of blood splattered on or dripping down a wall. Spirits can also come with blood transfusions. Any time one has had a transfusion, it's a good idea to address any spirits who might have come with the blood.

I'm not certain of the reason for this. I can't think God would object to using blood transfusions to save lives, so I have to conclude that the blood donors may have had spirits in their lives who transferred with the blood to the eventual recipient. Either that, or demons have decided on their own to attach to people who accept blood or any type of tissue taken from another person.

For this reason, I feel it's important to do a binding prior to accepting a transfusion, transplant, or tissue insertion: "In Jesus' name, I bind all demonic spirits from transferring to me from the ___ I'm about to receive. I ask God in Heaven to bind you as well. Thank you, Father." Then, for good measure, do a cast away after receiving the transfusion, transplant, or tissue. (See my book What Demonic Spirits Don't Want You to Know for complete instructions on casting away demons.)

Bogeyman: Often spirits who are trying to scare children will tell the children they're the bogeyman. When appearing to a child, spirits often choose the guise of a hooded figure with no face, similar to the grim reaper without a scythe.

A spirit of this description used to torment my son when he was three years old. Once when Kevin tried to get out of bed to run to me for help, the spirit took his voice and flung an energy net over him that stung him like a jelly fish and caused him to be paralyzed for a large part of the night.

When I was working with a couple who were victims of harassment, after we'd finished addressing each of their spirit issues, I asked to speak to their five-year-old daughter. They both assured me the little girl wouldn't talk to me. "She never talks on the phone. And she never talks to people she doesn't know, even when we say it's alright."

I told them that children often surprised their parents by being open with me about things having to do with spirits. They assured me their daughter was not being harassed, but I convinced them to let me talk with her anyway. (I knew that this was a Christian family, and that their daughter believed in God and Jesus.)

It turned out the “bogeyman” was visiting this little girl nightly. The reason she hadn’t told her parents was that the spirit pretending to be the bogeyman had told her if she said a word to them it would kill her mommy and daddy. It hadn’t told her not to tell me.

I assured this little girl that I had worked with many children who were being scared at night by spirits pretending to be monsters or the bogeyman, and that God and Jesus worked with me to make those spirits go away. “Could you do that for me?” she asked in a trembling voice.

Through God in Jesus’ name, I cast the bogeyman away. It never bothered this little girl again.

Blurred Vision: If you’ve read my book “Betrayed by Her Guardian Angel,” you know that the spirit pretending to be my guardian angel blurred my vision for three days in a row to force me to quit my job.

Three, by the way, is a spirit number. Spirits typically do things in groups of three or multiples of three.

Spirit Blurring of Vision often occurs by spirits’ temporarily clouding the cornea. Spirits can affect any part of the eye, and any aspect of vision – including but not limited to eyestrain, dry eyes, eyelids sticking shut, watery eyes, and macular degeneration. I’m not saying these conditions are always the result of demonic harassment. But, if the person has been abused or has ever been linked to any aspect of the occult, spirit harassment may be the culprit.

Break Things: Demonic spirits often break things by causing them to fall, causing something to fall on them, or causing the harassment victim to drop them. In the case of a writer who preferred to make handwritten notes before typing her manuscripts, spirits would cause the pencil lead to break the instant it lightly touched the paper.

Bruises: I've worked with many people who had bruises from spirits hitting them. One Native American man actually had muscle bruises from being slugged in the thigh by an unseen force.

A possessed woman I worked with over the phone was being punched, slapped, and scratched by departing spirits as they were cast away in Jesus' name. One of the departing spirits used this woman's fist to slug her husband. Given that the spirits gave her super human strength, the blow knocked her husband across the room.

It's not uncommon in cases of severe harassment for spirits to cause a person to hit himself hard enough to bruise.

Burning Pain was the main manifestation with a man I was working with through Skype. This man had literally thousands of spirits. Some had come through his ancestry, some through the fact that he and his friends had desecrated a church as teens, some from his girlfriend and her psychic, and some through items he had collected over the years through his work as a garbage man, from the trash of people who were into the occult, Chattering voices (pretending to be voices of people he knew) and burning, searing pains in various parts of his body were how the spirits chose to harass him. Often they would affect the ligamentous band around his wrist or ankle, heating it to the point of excruciating pain.

Car problems mechanics can't diagnose or repair are a typical form of harassment. When I was involved with the spirit realm, my car was in the shop almost as much as it was out of it. Yet the mechanics could never find anything wrong. Of course this sometimes happens with people who've done nothing to bring spirit harassment into their lives. But in my case and the cases of many others I've worked with, the problems were caused by harassment.

If you've read my book "Betrayed..." you know that when Chet and I were ready to leave on vacation, spirits told me the "dark ones" were planning to make the car break down. The car ran like a top until we were in the middle of nowhere. And that's when it broke down. We had to pay through the nose for the repair.

A family who purchased a used truck that had belonged to a Catholic man inherited Catholic spirits with the truck who caused the truck to get low gas mileage. After the spirits were cast away through God in Jesus' name, gas mileage improved.

Climbing into Bed With a Person is one of the most frightening types of harassment. I've worked with several harassment victims – both male and female – who've experienced this. Most have reported that the mattress actually sank under the weight of the unseen entity. Some of these people were victims of simulated rape. (Simulated rape in the form of a sensation of anal intercourse can happen to men, as well as women.)

Cold Air is another typical form of harassment. People with spirit problems often complain of cold areas in the house that do not get warm even when the furnace is turned up. Making the air cold is a game spirits often play to make people sense their presence.

A couple who had done numerous things to bring harassment into their lives told me of the night when the air beneath the comforter on their bed suddenly turned cold as ice. They added more blankets and snuggled together for warmth, but to no avail. The chill continued till the spirits causing it tired of the game and stopped. At that point, the temperature instantly returned to normal.

Colon: There are many types of spirit harassment having to do with the colon. Chief among these is chronic constipation unrelated to diet.

Computer Crash: Computers can crash for a hundred reasons, most of which have nothing to do with harassment. But for people who have spirits in their lives, harassment is often the cause.

I once called the Geek Squad because my computer was crashing every time I tried to work with any of my software. My anti-virus software had not detected a virus, and I hadn't bought or installed any software from an unreliable source.

After testing my computer for viruses and saying it was clear, the Geek Squad did their battery of tests and came up with no diagnosis. As one of them put it, "I'm surprised you haven't gotten the 'Death Screen.'" The other one said "Something has definitely gotten into this computer, and it's not a virus. Quite frankly, I'm impressed."

What had "gotten into" my computer was demonic harassment. The computer was ruined, and I had to buy another. It wasn't long till the new computer was experiencing the same type of problems. This time I recognized what was happening before it had gone too far. I did a series of cast aways in Jesus' name, and the computer returned to normal. This was three years ago. I'm still using the same computer.

Years after my experience with the Geek Squad,, a former harassment victim told me she'd heard there were demons by the name of Boyce who cause computers to break down. (I assume they adopted the name Boyce from a hacker who specialized in creating viruses.) Skeptical, I addressed whether Boyce spirits had had anything to do with wrecking my computer. Sure enough, there was a huge manifestation!

Corrupt: Another computer-related problem that can be caused by harassment is corruption of software. This used to happen with regard to softwares I've used to make photo stories from pictures of my grandchildren. Everything would work perfectly till the final picture had been inserted and adjusted to fit the music. Then, before I could save it, the corruption message would pop up and the photo story would be ruined. This happened with more than one software program, and it happened only with photo stories of my grandchildren. My grandchildren, of course, had nothing to do with it, other than the fact that I love them and it was important to me to make something special for them.

I tried uninstalling and re-installing the programs. Same problem. Once the last of the spirits affecting my photo stories had finally been cast away, the problems with my photo stories and related software ended.

Cough: A persistent cough that won't go away could be a legitimate medical problem. It could be related to smoking and/or lifestyle. Or it could be the result of spirit harassment. I've encountered cases in which post nasal drip and the resulting cough were harassment related. And I've personally experienced a spirit-induced illness in which a deep cough was the main symptom.

A persistent tickle which triggers a cough is another typical form of harassment.

Deafness While deafness can be caused by numerous conditions, it can also be a form of spirit harassment and/or manifestation. The instant the "deaf" spirit is cast out, the person's hearing returns to normal.

I once worked with a teen-ager whose hearing had grown steadily worse each year of her life, to the point that she could no longer hear without hearing aids in both ears. The spirits causing her hearing loss had been passed down through her ancestry. Once the spirits of hearing loss and deafness had been cast away, the girl's hearing returned to normal.

Depression: There are many causes of depression: grief, stress, illness, medication. But depression can be and often is a form of demonic harassment. Spirits can affect the emotions at will, whether it be to cause anger, depression, jealousy, or an unexplained feeling of joy or euphoria. Unfortunately, depression is one of their favorites.

I've had occasion to work with two separate men whose manic depression was caused by spirit harassment. Each of them had spirits of B I Polar Disorder, Manic Depression, Mania, and Depression. In addition, they each had spirits of Irresponsibility, Forgetfulness, Broken Promises, Rage, Failed Relationships, and each of the other symptoms that are inherent in this illness.

Spirit induced depression in teens often leads to isolation, cutting and self mutilation, and even suicide. Many adult harassment victims I've worked with were "Cutters" as teens, and have the scars to show for it.

In cases where spirit harassment is at the root, the medications doctors prescribe cannot deal with the spirits who are causing the condition. Spirits of Depression are of course delighted when their victims are placed on medication whose side effects are as bad as the condition it's intended to treat.

Dirt and rocks: This is one I've encountered only once. A father of a boy in a Middle Eastern country who was horribly harassed told me he had witnessed an unseen force pry open his son's mouth and pour in dirt and rocks. The dirt and rocks appeared to come out of the air!

This same man's daughter's tongue cracked, making it virtually impossible for her to eat solid food. Demonic spirits were responsible.

Disease: During the course of my former ministry, I discovered that many of the illnesses I encountered in harassment victims appeared to be linked to their ancestors' involvement in free Masonry. For this reason, I decided to address any Masonry spirits of my own that had been passed down to me through my ancestry, who had anything to do with nervous disorders – A.L.S. in particular, since my father died of it when I was a child.. I was stunned when a spirit immediately began to sob through me. I wasn't the one doing the sobbing. The sobbing didn't stop till the A.L.S. spirits had been cast away. The instant the spirits were gone, the sobbing stopped, and my eyes and sinuses were dry.

Given this experience, I told my story to a man with A.L.S. symptoms (whose father, like mine, had died of the disease). He agreed that we should address any spirits of nervous disorders who'd been passed down to him as a result of his grandfather's participation in free Masonry. Since I knew spirits don't work alone, I addressed both Nervous Disorder and A.L.S. spirits specifically, then spirits associated with each of this man's symptoms. Demonic spirits manifested for each thing I addressed. I haven't heard from him in several years, but the last time I heard from him he was symptom free.

I'm not saying that all A.L.S. is caused by spirits. But in this man's case, it was. I don't know about my father's case. He had never been involved in Masonry or any aspect of the occult. But apparently someone in his ancestry had, given the manifestation I experienced.

Among the diseases and conditions I've encountered that can be triggered, made worse, or mimicked by demonic spirits are Allergies, Alopecia, Angina, Asthma, Asperger's, Asperger's, Autism, Bipolar Disorder, Blindness, Cancer, Chronic Indigestion, Chronic Fatigue, Constipation, Cysts, Edema (also known as Dropsy), Estrogen Dominance, Fibromyalgia, Flu, Gingivitis, Hormone Imbalances, Incontinence, Infirmary, Ingrown Toenails, Joint Inflammation, Loose Teeth, Lymphodema, Macular Degeneration, Migraines, Multiple Sclerosis, Narcolepsy, Neuralgia, Neuropathy, Obesity, Organ enlargement and/or inflammation, Osteoporosis, P.A.D., Parkinson's Disease, Pneumonia, Rashes, Schizophrenia, Seizures, Sinusitis, Stroke, Thinning Skin, Tourettes, and T.M.J. I'm not implying that these diseases and/or conditions are a/ways related to spirit harassment. What I'm saying is that in some cases they are. This is not to be construed as medical advice.

Cast aways of any spirit involvement in these or other conditions and diseases are intended as a precursor to medical treatment and/or as a supplement to that treatment.

Dizziness and symptoms of vertigo are a type of harassment that frequently goes undetected because this condition is so common, unrelated to harassment. But if you know you have spirits in your life and you experience symptoms of this type, harassment should be suspected.

Doors close on their own: My husband's bedroom door developed a problem of closing in slow motion any time our Chihuahua was present. This would drive Peppy crazy. Most of the time it wouldn't latch. But every once in awhile, just for effect, the spirits tormenting Peppy would give it an extra push to trap him in the bedroom.

After the spirits who'd been closing the door had been cast away, the door stayed open.

Drain: A favorite type of harassment is to drain laptop, car, flashlight, camera, and toy batteries of energy. But batteries aren't the only things spirits drain. In the case of a college student who was a victim of severe harassment, spirits actually drained his water bed when he was away in class!

Dry eyes, mouth, or throat: Although these symptoms are often caused by allergy, they are also a frequent form of spirit harassment.

Causing eyes to stick shut is a particularly unpleasant type of harassment related to dry eyes. In cases where the eyes stick shut, the act of opening them suddenly can result in the painful ripping away of layers of cells from the eyeballs. (The allergies that cause the dry eye condition are often spirit related.)

Dry skin that does not respond to lotions and skin oils can be a form of harassment that leads to unsightly lines and wrinkles.

E

Ear ache, and noises in the ear: There are many causes for ear aches, some of which respond to antibiotics, other of which simply have to run their course. But ear aches, like aches in other parts of the body, can also be a form of demonic harassment. The same is true of tinnitus: ringing, roaring, or other noises in the ear. Tinnitus can result from exposure to loud noises. It can even be a side effect of certain medications. But it is also a form of demonic harassment that often goes untreated because it's mistaken for a medical condition.

If you've read my book "Betrayed..." you know that my former room-mate Carla suffered from tinnitus. Often the spirits would tweak her condition and turn the volume of the ringing up or down at will.

I've worked with numerous harassment victims with spirit-induced Tinnitus who've had to resort to hearing aids in order to hear other sounds. In the case of a woman whose Tinnitus was so bad that she was forced to wear hearing aids in both ears, her hearing returned to normal (no hearing aids) the instant the spirits causing the tinnitus were cast away.

Ejaculation: A teen-aged boy from the Middle East was a victim of extreme demonic harassment, one form of which was involuntary ejaculation. This boy would ejaculate at home, in public, in private, or at school -- whether or not he was sexually aroused. (This same boy had spirits in his home that would walk around the house at night wearing his trousers. On one occasion, a spirit wrapped a wire around this boy's neck, then attached the other end to a fan and turned the fan on. Fortunately, his father was present at the time and was able to turn the fan off before any damage was done.)

Erratic heartbeat: Erratic heartbeat and a racing heart are another typical form of harassment that often sends the harassment victim running to the doctor, only to be told there is no medical explanation for why this is going on.

Erase: The same boy I wrote about who had dirt and rocks poured into his mouth had a spirit who would erase the answers from test papers after the boy had turned them in. The same was true of his sister. In the space of a week, this boy and his sister went from A students to failing. This is not a typical form of harassment. I've only encountered it once. I myself, however, have seen the text disappear from a computer page in a manuscript, leaving the text on the other pages untouched.

Estrogen Dominance: Common methods spirits use, aside from gluttony, to cause weight gain are Estrogen Dominance and Insulin Resistance.

A woman in her early sixties had spirits of estrogen dominance who were causing her to be overweight. When I told this to a friend, she said "That's impossible. A woman who's already been through menopause can't be estrogen dominant. It's a physical impossibility."

My reply to her was that this may be true of women who aren't victims of demonic harassment. But where demonic spirits are involved, almost anything's possible.

I am not implying that all estrogen dominance and insulin resistance is caused by demonic spirits. But for victims of demonic harassment, this could very well be a factor.

Eyes: The eyes can be the target of half a dozen or more types of harassment ranging from blurred vision to spirit induced macular degeneration.

Eyes darting or blinking rapidly: Eyes darting back and forth against a person's will is sometimes a result of demonic harassment. The same is true of eyes blinking rapidly.

A man who had belonged to a cult once told me that when he began to pray directly to Jesus, spirits caused his eyes to dart and his eyelids to flutter simultaneously. This is because we're not supposed to pray to Jesus. We're supposed to pray to God the Father, in Jesus' name.

F

Falling Wall Hangings: Many harassment victims I've worked with have experienced having pictures or shelves fall from their walls, even though they had been properly hung and were secure. Spirits have manifested as causing the pictures to fall.

One lady had spirits that would cause pictures to fall every time she tried to form a new relationship. As long as she wasn't dating, the pictures were fine. As soon as she met a new man and accepted a date, the spirits would cause the pictures to fall. She believed the spirits haunting her house were jealous, and avoided dating to appease them.

When my husband and I were involved with the spirit realm, I painted a statue for him of a knight in rusty armor. We set it on a desk beneath a set of shelves mounted securely to the wall. Harassing spirits caused the bottom shelf to fall directly on the statue, smashing it to bits.

This statue had taken me days to paint, and it was my husband's most prized possession. By destroying the statue, the harassing spirits had managed to upset both of us.

Familiar Voice: One of the first questions I used to ask harassment victims is "Do you ever hear a familiar voice calling your name when no one is there?" The answer was usually "Yes."

Roughly half of the harassment victims I've worked with have said they've heard the voice of a parent or child calling their name or saying it softly in their ear when the person who appeared to be speaking was in another room or miles away.

Fart: Passing gas is a form of harassment that is often overlooked, because it is considered to be a natural function. But it can also be an embarrassing form of harassment. Spirits who harass in this way respond to the names Fart, Flatulence, Gas, Passing Gas, and Breaking Wind.

Flies: Infestations of flies are a frequent and extremely annoying form of harassment. Flies and other insects will often land on harassment victims without bothering anyone else in the room.

In one instance, a group of six flies landed on a woman's water glass while leaving everyone else's glass alone, presumably to alert her to the fact that she was being singled out for harassment. Another woman I worked with actually reported having a swarm of flies burst from her freezer when she opened the freezer door. In still another case, a man opened his microwave after heating a cup of coffee, and a fly flew out and disappeared.

These types of harassment and manifestation seem appropriate, given the fact that Satan is often referred to as the Lord of the Flies.

Foot Drop, Foot Drag: Spirits can cause spinal misalignment, resulting in foot drop. They can also cause a foot to drag. When I visited California Big Trees, I was attacked by demonic spirits in the form of putting my lower back out of alignment halfway through the hike, and causing my left foot to drag as if it had a sand bag attached.

There was nothing my husband could do to help. And doing cast aways at that point resulted in only a small improvement. If I hadn't had walking sticks with me, I couldn't have made it out. As it was, I was in pain, unable to move faster than a turtle's pace, and unable to lift my left foot even half an inch off the ground.

Fifteen minutes after leaving the Big Trees, I was able to walk normally. When we got home and I was able to think clearly (without pain), I addressed the afternoon's attack thoroughly in Jesus' name, and there was a huge manifestation as the spirits who had ruined the trek through the California Big Trees departed.

Frightening images projected on the wall: A favorite among demonic spirits is to project an image on the wall of a monster, skeleton, severed head, severed hand, or other bloody scene.

When my husband and I were involved with the spirit realm, a demon appeared to him in the form of a laughing green skeleton projected on the bedroom wall. One appeared to my son as a severed hand, dripping blood, and running a movie projector.

G

Ghostly apparitions: Spirits appear in many forms. But one of the favorites is ghostly apparitions: wispy ethereal figures floating through the room or hovering in the air. These are the kind often depicted in cartoons or horror movies. But they're not all fiction. Many are for real.

A spirit group appeared in this form when the false holy spirit was cast out of a tongues speaker through God in Jesus' name.

Glitter: My husband and I were lying in bed in a room lit only by moonlight. "Look up there in the corner,” my husband said. “Tell me if you see anything.”

I looked in the direction he was pointing, and there was a cloud of blue and turquoise glitter hovering in the air. We stared at it for several seconds before it occurred to me that this might be a spirit manifestation. Through God in Jesus’ name, I did a cast away. The cloud of glitter disappeared.

This isn’t a frequent form of harassment, but I’ve encountered it with two or three other harassment victims.

Goose: Strange and gross as it may sound, spirits have been known to “goose” their victims. This was a favorite type of harassment at a well-known “haunted” hotel in Placerville, California.

H

Hair standing on end: We’ve all seen it in cartoons. A person gets scared, and his hair stands on end. I would wager that the majority of adults do not believe this could ever happen. But they’re wrong.

A number of times with people I’ve worked with over the phone doing spirit cast aways, departing spirits have manifested in this way. In a voice of amazement, people have told me “My hair is standing straight up on my head.”

One particular harassment victim told me she was shopping in a store that sold crystal pendants that had had powers such as healing and financial success assigned. As a result, they were of the occult. When she picked up a crystal to examine it, her hair stood up as if the room were full of static electricity.. When she laid the crystal down, her hair lay down as well.

There's no reason to believe that everyone's hair stands on end when they examine this pendant. That was simply how the pendant spirits chose to harass this woman.

Another woman reported that any time she would attempt to read a book, spirits would make her hair stand on end.

Demonic spirits can also be involved with excess hydrogen peroxide production for the purpose of turning hair gray or white prematurely.

In a case involving a child who had beautiful curly hair, spirits caused her to pull chunks of hair out by the roots. When questioned by her mother, she said it felt good.

Hallucinations: Spirits often cause their victims to have hallucinations similar to those experienced under the influence of drugs. One form these hallucinations sometimes take is that of alien abduction.

Headaches, whether Migraines, sinus, vascular, or tension, are a frequent form of harassment. That's not to say that headaches don't happen for other reasons. But if a person is a known harassment victim, spirits may be at the root of his headaches.

Holes in the Bed: An elderly woman who'd had spirit problems ever since moving into her "dream home" was unable to sleep at night due to the feeling that there were holes in her mattress, and fear that she would fall through. Once the harassing spirits had been cast away, the “holes in the mattress” disappeared.

Homosexual urges: When a person who was born straight suddenly finds himself attracted to someone of the same gender, demonic harassment should be suspected. I’ve worked with several people who’ve had this experience, including a man who was suddenly attracted to his grown son. In every case, demonic spirits were involved. When the spirits were cast away, they took the homosexual urges with them.

A young man I worked with who was on the verge of going insane from the voices he was hearing in the engines of passing vehicles, told me the story of the day he was born. Ted said that on the day he was born a ball of white light floated into his mother’s hospital room and settled on the windowsill. His mother had believed the white light to be an angel. Ted believed it was a demon. So did I. Together, Ted and I went through the necessary steps to sever all links he had to the occult. And then Ted said “I should probably tell you I’m gay. I’ve always wondered if the ball of white light caused me to be born this way.”

This was something I’d never encountered. When we were ready to do cast aways, I told Ted that he must be absolutely certain he wanted to do this. If it were true that the ball of white light had been demonic, and the group of spirits appearing as the ball had caused him to be born gay, if we cast the spirits out of him, he couldn't continue with this lifestyle. If he did, the spirits would have a right to come back and bring their friends with them. I told him it wouldn't be easy to turn his back on his former way of life, and that even after the spirits were cast away, he would need to consult with a counselor.

Ted said he still wanted to go for it. So that's what we did. Through God in Jesus' name, Ted rejected and denounced his gay lifestyle if it had indeed been caused by demonic spirits. When, through God in Jesus' name, we cast the spirits away, the voices stopped. Ted opened the door to listen to passing traffic. He was ecstatic when all he heard were the engines. No more voices!

For about three months, Ted was straight. During these three months the voices were gone. But then Ted slipped back into his former lifestyle and, true to my prediction, the spirits returned. Only this time there were more of them. And this time the voices weren't just in passing engines; they were actually in his house.

I'm not saying that all homosexuals are gay due to spirit activity in their lives. What I am saying is that, based on my experience, in every case of homosexuality I've been called upon to address, demonic spirits have manifested as being the cause of the same sex attraction.

Hot Flashes: Hot flashes are a normal part of female menopause. But demonic spirits often give women hot flashes long before or after menopause.

A man I was working with called when I was away from home and left a phone message saying he had a terrible headache in the back of his head. He asked if I would address it when I got home to see if demonic spirits were causing it. I addressed it, and he was right. The headache was caused by harassment. He called again later, and while we were on the phone he said he was feeling nauseous and felt like he was burning up.

I addressed any demonic spirits who were causing him to have a fever, and asked God's permission to speak to the top strong man of the fever, "Only if it's your will..." The strong man said it wasn't a demon of fever. It was a demon of hot flashes. I exclaimed "Hot flashes!" And the spirit replied, "He has incubus and succubus spirits. Since he has spirits who represent themselves as female sexual demons, we have the right to give him female hot flashes."

When I did a cast away through God in Jesus' name of Hot Flash demons, they left, and his temperature immediately returned to normal.

Hovering: Spirits often choose to appear hovering in the air in the form of orbs or wisps of fog. One once appeared to me as an angelic creature dressed in white, hovering at the foot of my bed.

Another woman reported a group of orbs hovering in her bedroom. She took a photo with her digital camera and, on close inspection, discovered the orbs had faces. These faces were smiling. Ironically, after I'd told her the orbs were demons, the next group she photographed had demonic faces with sharp teeth.

Illusions: When I had my former website, a teen-aged boy I was working with asked me about the animation of a naked man on my site. I told him he must have my website mixed up with a porn site. “There’s no animation of a nude man on mine!”

But Matthew insisted. In order to prove him wrong, I directed him to click onto my website while we were on the phone. I clicked on as well. Since he had said the naked man was sitting in a rocking chair, we clicked onto the page in my website where there was an animation of a squeaking rocking chair with no one in it

Matthew said “See, I told you, There he is! He just stood up, and he’s looking at me right now!”

I did a cast away through God in Jesus’ name of the spirits giving Matthew this illusion. The nude man instantly disappeared, and Matthew saw the animated rocking chair as it was intended: rocking with no one sitting in it.

This was a one-time occurrence. No one else that I know of has ever experienced that hallucination.

Images appear on a T.V. screen when the T.V. is turned off. Sound impossible? Not when spirits are involved. I worked with a woman who learned of her husband’s affair by watching it on a T.V. that wasn’t even turned on! Her husband thought she was crazy, but he couldn’t deny the affair.

When I addressed any demonic spirits who’d been involved in producing this tattletale show, they manifested big time by making this woman feel as if spiders were crawling all over her body.

Images jump out of the T.V. Another harassment victim with a similar problem had once been a movie buff. But after she'd gone for a psychic reading and had a Tarot reading through the internet, strange things began to happen. Images in T.V. movies appeared to jump out of the screen right into her face as if she were watching through 3-D glasses.

After this woman and I worked together and through God in Jesus' name got rid of the harassing spirits, the images from that point on. stayed in the T.V. where they belonged.

Imaginary Playmates may be exactly that: playmates that exist only in the child's imagination. On the other hand, the term "imaginary playmate" may have a more sinister meaning. I have worked with several people who said they had imaginary playmates when they were children. In each and every case, these "playmates" were still with them as adults in the form of harassing spirits.

One lady I worked with was being possessed by nine imaginary playmates from her childhood who all went by the name of Jim. They all looked and sounded exactly the same, but nine spirit groups were playing the part of one spirit.

This fits with the fact that spirits do not work alone. They typically work in groups that are multiples of three. I know this both from personal experience and from the experiences of harassment victims I've worked with.

Inanimate objects may appear to move of their own volition. When my stepson was in the navy, one of his buddies had a pair of shoes that would walk around with no one in them. He would pick them up and put them back at the foot of his bed, but moments later the shoes would walk away.

The family in the Middle East I wrote about earlier had hammers and knives flying through the air – apparently being thrown at the mother by an entity no one could see. The spirit never actually hit her. I'm certain it wasn't trying.

A teen-aged boy in Indiana had objects thrown at him in his room when we were casting the spirits out. As we spoke by phone, he was cowering behind his bed as chairs and shaving supplies were flying through the air. Nothing actually hit him. I don't think the spirits were really trying. This type of manifestation is not typical.

Infestation: A family I recently worked with experienced an unexplainable infestation of buzzing moth-like insects that filled their garage to the point that the air was so thick that they couldn't see the walls. The woman called me to ask if this could be a form of harassment. It was. We did a cast away through God in Jesus' name, and there was a manifestation.

When the woman checked her garage the following day, the insects were nowhere to be found. No windows or doors had been opened. There was no vent the insects could have escaped through. They had simply disappeared.

In another case, a house was infested by flies. The family could not figure out how the flies were getting in. Despite the fact that they killed every fly they discovered, more flies kept getting in. Finally the woman did a cast away through God in Jesus' name of the demonic spirits who were somehow bringing the flies in. There was a manifestation, and the fly infestation ended.

Influence: Spirits often influence a person to say or do things he normally wouldn't say or do. In the case of a person who's applying for a job, if that person is a victim of demonic harassment, spirits will often give the employer a bad feeling so that the employer won't hire him. If he is competing for a promotion, spirits can cause the employer to have good feelings about the other person and bad feelings about him, thus preventing the harassment victim from getting the promotion even if he's more qualified..

Likewise, spirits sometimes put untrue thoughts into the minds of co-workers to make them dislike the harassment victim, or else they'll give the harassment victim thoughts that other people dislike him or are saying negative things about him. This may go so far as to influence the harassment victim to quit his job. This happened to a young man I worked with. He actually "heard" the voices of co-workers talking about him – when his co-workers weren't even talking.

Isolate: Spirits love to isolate their victims, often by wrecking their relationships with spouses, family members, and friends. When I was involved with spirit guides (you can read about this in "Betrayed..."), the spirits coerced me into moving away from family and friends to live in an old hotel in a town I had no desire to live in, and work at a job where my co-workers were half my age and wanted nothing to do with me.

A friend of mine that I suspected to be a victim of demonic harassment, suddenly developed a need to stay home – even though she'd never liked staying home alone before. When she was working or visiting with friends, she would have constant thoughts that she needed to leave and go home, even though she knew being at home meant being depressed. With her permission, I addressed any spirits who were responsible for this magnetic pull, Spirits manifested by touching her shoulders and causing the hair on her arms to stand on end.

I did the usual cast away through God in Jesus' name, but the manifestation continued until we broke the stronghold of her native country. She had been born in a South American country where spiritism is rampant. Once the stronghold had been broken, the spirits of Isolation could be cast away.

Parents of teens who are anti-social and prefer to stay alone in their rooms would do well to investigate anything in their lives or the lives of their son or daughter that might have brought demonic harassment into the teen-ager's life.

I worked with a family whose daughter had suddenly started dressing in black, wearing black nail polish, and staying in her room alone. Upon investigation, the parents learned that their daughter had recently been listening to heavy metal music. It was the spirits from heavy metal music who were causing her to feel depressed, giving her the need to be alone, and influencing her choice of clothing and nail polish. (Spirits from heavy metal music, by the way, are among the nastiest I've encountered. They're the ones who often tell teen-agers to mutilate their bodies, cause them to disrespect their parents, and urge them to kill school mates, murder members of their family, or commit suicide.)

A week after I'd worked with this girl and cast the heavy metal spirits away through God in Jesus' name, her mother called to say her daughter had rejoined the family.

Itching: Itching and itchy rashes are a common form of harassment. In the case of a single mom I worked with, it was her eight-year-old daughter who was suffering the consequences of her mother's having dabbled in the occult in the form of going for psychic readings and having used a prayer cloth. This little girl itched all over her body, off and on twenty-four hours a day. The doctor had prescribed Benadryl, which didn't help. Nor did the Calamine her mother slathered onto her arms and legs.

We were able to put an end to the itching by having the little girl reject and denounce any spirits that had come into her life as a result of anything her parents or grandparents had done, then casting the spirits away through God in Jesus' name. The itching stopped instantly and did not return.

When my former chiropractor told me about an itchy rash on his neck that he'd had for weeks which had not responded to medication, I told him the story of this little girl. Given that the chiropractor had been into heavy metal music as a teen, he asked me to address this for him to find out if spirits were causing the rash.

They were. I cast the spirits away through God in Jesus' name. Within three days after the cast away, the doctor's persistent rash had disappeared. (Often when spirits have caused a health problem, it takes time for the health problem to go away, even after the spirits are gone.)

Note: Doing spirit cast aways can make matters worse if the person still has unsevered links to the occult. This is because spiritual entities cast out or away under these circumstances have the right to return and bring their friends with them. Also, certain spirit groups who are likely to be present often step up to the plate to take over the type of harassment those who were cast away had been doing.

Items Disappear: We've all experienced forgetfulness when we can't remember where we put something, or when we're certain we put something in a particular spot but when we go to look for it, it's not there. This is a normal fact of life. But it can also be a form of demonic harassment.

Among the questions I used to ask harassment victims, one was "Do items in your home sometimes disappear, possibly to re-appear later in a place you would not have put them?" More than a third of the time, the answer was "Yes."

Of the three most dramatic examples of this I've yet encountered,, one was a woman that had food disappearing out of her refrigerator and showing up in locations such as under the bed or beneath a throw pillow on the living room couch! Once the mischievous spirits were gone, there were no further disappearances of food.

A second example involved a young woman whose grandmother had died and left her a bracelet. This bracelet had a damaged clasp, but it was very special to Maria – so special, in fact, that she carried it in her purse as a good luck charm. Unfortunately, the purse containing the bracelet was stolen.

Three years later, Maria bought a new purse to go with the outfit she'd received for her birthday. As she was taking the tissue stuffing from the purse, something shiny fell to the floor. She picked it up and nearly fainted. It was the bracelet her grandmother had left her – the one that had been stolen three years before.

And finally, there's the example of the woman who often experienced having things in her home disappear. This woman went on a cruise to Hawaii. While she was there, she hung her favorite lingerie on the clothesline at the cabin she was renting, only to have it disappear off the line. When she returned to her home in California, she found the missing lingerie neatly folded in her bureau drawer.

Irresponsibility: Irresponsibility, forgetfulness, and broken promises can be a form of demonic harassment. If the harassment is bad enough, it can even endanger relationships.

This was the case for a man who suffered from spirit-induced Bipolar Disorder. He broke so many promises to his wife and children that he'd lost their trust. Often he would write checks regardless of whether sufficient funds were available, and never remember writing them. These irresponsible actions threatened to destroy his marriage – and would have if his wife hadn't known demonic harassment was at the root of the problem.

With each cast away, there was a notable improvement. Joe still has a way to go, but at least now they can see the proverbial light at the end of the tunnel.

J

Jealousy has been known to raise its ugly head in the best of families. A certain amount of envy is normal in most families. But “green-eyed envy” can also be the result of demonic harassment aimed at causing trouble between friends, couples, and family members.

There's nothing spirits like better than to wreck or damage relationships. One of the ways to do this is through jealousy.

Jinx: When I was involved with the spirit realm, any time I would mention my plans – such as what I hoped to accomplish on a particular day – spirits would jinx my project so that what should have taken an hour or less would end up taking two or three days. The same would happen to spoil planned outings. Any time my husband and I talked about the fun things we planned to do, spirits would jinx our plans, and things would happen to spoil our outing.

I have since discovered that jinxes are a part of the curse continuum, right along with curses, spells, hexes, and vexes.

K

Kaleidoscope: This is my name for bright swirling lights that used to keep me awake when I closed my eyes at night. Like the song that plays over and over again in your head (which can also be a form of harassment), the kaleidoscope of lights that would keep me awake turned out to be caused by a spirit group who had come to me from a demonic harassment victim I'd been helping.

A word of caution: Spirits can transfer from the harassment victim to the person who's trying to help. It's imperative that the person who's helping be secure in his/her relationship with God, and that he or she do a binding in Jesus' name against the transferral of spirits from the harassment victim: "In Jesus' name, I bind all demonic spirits from transferring to me, any member of my family, or our belongings. I ask God in Jesus' name to do this in Heaven as well.."

Knowledge: Paranormal knowledge of things a person has no normal way to know doesn't come from God. It comes from demonic forces. People who have these experiences may argue that people in Bible times often had prophetic dreams that were divinely inspired..This was true in Bible times.

But the Bible clearly states that prophecies will cease. And Biblical prophecies did cease approximately two thousand years ago. The people I've worked with who reported having prophetic dreams and/or knowledge no longer had it, once the spiritual entities providing it had been cast away.

Lift and drop: A teen-aged boy who was victimized as a result of his mother having dabbled in the occult had a problem with spirits causing the lid of the dumpster to fall on his fingers when he took out the trash. Connected by the telephone, this boy and I went out to the parking lot of his apartment complex. He gave me a blow by blow description as we proceeded:

“I want you to know I don’t want to do this, I’m shaking really bad.” he said.

“Don’t worry,” I told him.” I’m with you, and God’s going to make these spirits leave, just like he did the ones in your bedroom.”

“The lid is going up and down right now,” Sean said. “No one’s there. It’s just going up and down. Do I have to go close to it?”

I could hear the fear in his voice. “Let’s just go a few feet closer so the spirits can’t pretend they don’t know we’re talking to them,” I said. “We’re not going to go all the way; just a little closer.”

Together through God in Jesus’ name, we cast the dumpster spirits away. After that, the lid closed and stayed that way until the next person opened it. It never slammed on the boy’s hands again.

Note: It wouldn't have been necessary for Sean to go out into the parking lot where the dumpster was located. But I didn't know that at the time.

Levitation: A man told me his harassment problems had started as a result of his friends' convincing him to play Lighter Than Air, a game of levitation.

Often harassment victims are lifted out of bed and transferred to another bed or dropped onto the floor . One man told me when his sons were very young, one of them was picked up out of his bed, carried through the hallway, and deposited on the couch.

A minister told the story of a college student who mocked Satan and sneered that Satan had no power over him. Immediately, the bed the student was lying on was lifted into the air, and the student was slammed against the ceiling numerous times before the spirits lifting the bed released it and allowed it to drop to the floor.

Light headedness as if one is about to faint is a frequent form of harassment. Also, when a person is already a victim of vertigo or has a poor sense of balance, this condition can be exacerbated as a form of harassment.

My husband used to experience light-headedness as a side effect of blood pressure medication. When spirits would come into our home as a result of my former work with harassment victims, they would often attack him with bouts of light-headedness that was indistinguishable from the medication side effects, except that when a cast away was done through God in Jesus' name, any light-headedness caused by spirits would instantly stop.

Lights turn on or off, seemingly on their own. If you've read my book "Betrayed by Her Guardian Angel," you know that I've experienced this one – even to the point of having spirits cause a sixty-watt bulb to burn as brightly as two hundred watts.

I was sitting on the floor of the dining room working on a project, when I commented to my husband that we needed to get a brighter bulb for the overhead light. Immediately the light, which was a one-way sixty watt ceiling bulb, clicked to a the equivalent of a hundred and fifty watts.. Given that I was into the spirit realm at the time and a "friendly" spirit we'd named Frank used to play with the lights, I thanked Frank. "But it's still not quite bright enough." The bulb immediately clicked to two hundred watts, bright enough for me to complete my project.

Low Gas Mileage: When a vehicle gets poor gas mileage and the mechanic can't find the source of the problem, demonic harassment may be the cause. A man I worked with had purchased a pickup that the salesman claimed would get twenty miles to a gallon. The first week the man had it, the truck lived up to expectations. But then the gas mileage took a sharp dip. The reason for the dip turned out to be demonic harassment. When the spirits causing the problem were cast away in Jesus' name, the gas mileage returned to normal.

Mirrors: Scary movies often depict spirits appearing behind someone in the bathroom mirror. Most people think this is nothing more than the outgrowth of a vivid imagination. But I've worked with harassment victims in real life who've experienced it.

A couple I worked with reported that they were standing next to one another looking in the bathroom mirror when a wispy apparition of a woman appeared behind them. When they looked around, no one was there. When they turned back toward the mirror, the woman was still behind them.

A lady I'll call Carrie was at home alone taking a hot shower when she sensed a presence in the bathroom. The bathroom was small, and very steamy. Carrie's heart was pounding as she turned off the shower and carefully slid open the glass shower door. Except for the steam, the bathroom was empty. Feeling rather foolish, Carrie stepped back into the shower. But as she reached out to close the sliding door she saw it. A message had been scrawled in the steam on the mirror above the sink. It was written backwards as if the entity that wrote it had been on the other side of the mirror: "I see you."

That was the last hot shower Carrie ever took in that bathroom. I couldn't convince her that, once the mirror spirits had been cast away, they would not be returning unless she did something to invite them.

Movement seen from the corner of the eye: There are very few harassment victims who haven't experienced this one. The person will see a fleeting movement, but when he turns to look, there'll be nothing there. I've seen literally hundreds of cases in which once the spirits had been cast away, the fleeting shadows were no longer a problem.

Muscle Manipulation: .A man I worked with who was a victim of extremely severe harassment would often be thrown onto the floor by an unseen entity and forced into the position of a female during sexual intercourse. The spirit would then mount him and make him feel as if he were a woman being raped.

Another man told of spirits forcing him into the sexual position of a woman and moving his body up and down in the way that a female would move during intercourse. At other times, the spirits would give him the illusion of being sodomized by an unseen force, even when he was walking through a store or down the street..

Muscle Twitches and Tics are another common form of harassment. Spirits especially like to cause muscle twitches in the middle of the night to snap harassment victims awake.

Mute: Often when working with harassment victims by phone, the line would suddenly appear to go dead. When this would happen, I would ask the person if she was able to speak, and instruct her to tap the phone receiver if she were not. As soon as I heard the tap, I would do a cast away through God in Jesus' name of the spirits taking the person's voice. Her voice would immediately return.

I have personally experienced this when casting spirits away from myself. For me, there will be a tight feeling in my chest and I'll have to mouth the words silently to stop the harassment, before orally saying the words of the cast away.

Noises in the attic or in rooms where no one is present are a frequent form of harassment:

My husband and I were at a restaurant talking about my former ministry when an elderly man approached us and said he couldn't help overhearing our conversation. "My wife and I keep hearing children's voices in our attic," he said. "It sounds like little kids playing and laughing, but we don't even have any grandchildren."

I told the man it sounded to me as if there were spirits in his home pretending to be the spirits of children. He said they had only lived in this house for a year, and that the voices had begun shortly after moving in.

After questioning him about his and his wife's past, and whether or not they'd ever dabbled in the occult, I concluded there was a good chance the spirits harassing them had been in the house when they moved in. The man said he and his wife both believed in God and Jesus – a necessity when breaking free of spirit harassment.

So I told him what he needed to do the next time he heard the voices. He took my advice, and the next time I saw him he said it had worked. The instant he said an anti-harassment prayer, God made the voices stop. This wouldn't have been the case if either he or his wife had unsevered links to the occult.

Note: This was before I learned to do spirit cast aways in Jesus' name. Thus, the advice I gave him was to say an anti-harassment prayer any time he or his wife was harassed. If that had been today, I would have told him how to cast the spirits away.

O

Odors and fragrances such as feces, perfume, cigar smoke, perspiration, sulfur, skunk, or pipe smoke are a favorite form of harassment. Fragrances such as oranges are equally common. When my husband and I were involved with the spirit realm, there was an odor of feces in our car that we could not get rid of. We didn't have a pet at the time, and a thorough search of the car proved what we already knew. There was nothing there. Finally one of my spirit guides (Remember, this was a long time ago when I was still involved with the spirit realm) told me one of the "dark ones" was causing the odor.

If you've read "Betrayed by Her Guardian Angel," you know that demonic spirits pretending to be good often blame bad things on the "dark ones," even when they're the ones causing the problem. This was what was happening with the odor.

Familiar fragrances are one method spirits use to convince grieving family members that they're the spirits of dead loved ones. If Grandma wore Chanel cologne, the spirit may make itself smell like Chanel. If Grandpa always smelled of beer and sweat, the spirits can create those odors as well.

When I was involved with spirit guides, one of them actually converted a Sprite to an alcoholic beverage – a strawberry daiquiri to be more precise. I don't drink, but my friend said it was the best strawberry daiquiri she'd ever tasted. I smelled it, and it smelled exactly like freshly cut strawberries.

O.C.D.: In many cases of Obsessive Compulsive Disorder, spirits are at the root of the problem. Stemming (repetitive behaviors) is often a part of O.C.D., and like the O.C.D. itself, is often caused by demonic harassment.

Oppression: An oppressive feeling that seems to weigh you down can be a form of harassment. Often, this type of harassment will make it difficult to accomplish even the simplest of tasks. They will simply seem overwhelming.

Orbs: One of the most common ways for spirits to appear is in the form of orbs – balls of light that can hang suspended in the air, can bounce from corner to corner, or show up in digital photos.

Because of the fact that so many people I'd worked with had had spirits in their lives in association with Native American objects, my husband and I decided to get rid of the Native American peace pipe we had hanging in our living room.

I shot pictures with my digital camera as my husband took the peace pipe down from the wall and broke it in half. As he was breaking it, he felt as if he were going to die. I immediately cast the spirits away (in Jesus' name) that were giving him this feeling. He instantly felt better.

I continued shooting pictures as he built a fire in our fireplace and tossed the peace pipe in. He then noticed a feather that had broken loose and fallen to the floor. When he bent to pick it up, he felt as if her were going to pass out. He tossed the feather into the fire, then sat down quickly and told me what was happening. I did an immediate cast away, and the lightheadedness vanished.

When my husband and I uploaded the digital pictures to my computer, the one shot as he was tossing the pipe into the fire had orbs hovering all around him. There were 33 orbs in all (including three that could be seen through the open patio door. These orbs appeared in this picture only. All the rest of the pictures were normal.

Out of Body Experience: This is also called Astral Projection, or going out on the strand. The reason it's called going out on the strand is that some people see a silver cord "attaching their spirit to their navel" when they're out of body. You can read about my out of body experience in the free download of "Betrayed by Her Guardian Angel," available through my website at staciespielman.com.

I once knew a woman who believed she was having an out of body affair with a man from her work. Night after night they would travel out of their bodies to make mad passionate love. Finally this woman decided to confront the man and bring their affair out in the open. She cornered him at the water cooler and told him from now on she didn't want to have to go out of body to meet him. She wanted to have their affair in her own bed.

The man thought she had lost her mind. He wasn't even attracted to her, and he didn't know what she was talking about regarding a love affair. The reason this man was “in the dark” as to what she was talking about is that he didn't have spirits in his life giving him the illusion of having an out of body affair. The woman, on the other hand, had dabbled in the occult. It was the spirits in her life who had created the illusion. The spirits had accomplished their goal. They had made a first class fool of this woman and made her feel like an idiot.

Despite what celebrities like Shirley McClaine may say on the subject, out of body experiences are not what they appear to be. The Bible says that to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord. Astral projection is merely an elaborate illusion demonic spirits like to create.

Paralysis: One of the scariest types of harassment I've encountered was the night a father called me to say the spirits in his house had paralyzed his six-year-old son. (This was the same household in which the mother and grandmother actually saw a toy disappear from the young daughter's hands. It reappeared later in another room.)

Spirit-induced paralysis of the little boy was the first case in which I ever did a spirit cast away. There were several dozen spirit groups involved. Each group of spirits was paralyzing a different part of the boy's body. Cast aways were required of the spirits paralyzing his toes, his feet, his legs, his fingers, his arms, and his torso. It was a very harrowing experience, but by the time we were through, the little boy was bouncing on an inflatable air mattress as if nothing had ever happened. I think the trauma of the experience must have blocked it out of his mind.

Paranoia: What better way to isolate a person than to cause him or her to be paranoid? Spirits often talk in a person's head, telling him others are talking about him, that someone wants to kill him, or that there are germs of a terrible disease lurking in the air and he'll be exposed if he goes out of the house.

When I was involved with spirit guides there was a man who used to watch me at the dances I went to. My guides had me convinced this man was fantasizing about raping me, and that when he was drinking he would fantasize about killing me because I wasn't interested in him. They said he had a friend who had just been released from prison, and this friend had moved into my apartment complex. This friend, they said, would be happy to do whatever this man asked him to do to me. They wanted me to wear a wig to disguise myself when I went out of my apartment.

I don't know what sort of fantasies this man might have had. But I do know that everything else the spirits said about him were lies intended to make me paranoid.

Peeking in through windows: This type of harassment is especially frightening. I'm sure that's why it occurs so often. One woman sent me a digital photo of a blue spirit face looking in through her window. Another told me of the upper half of a little girl's body that used to look in through the window of her daughter's bedroom.

Pen Light: The same woman who had the illusion of holes in her mattress had a red laser penlight shining up through her pillow. She and her husband took off the pillow case and looked under her pillow. The light was shining up through the mattress. They looked in the bedsprings and under the bed, but could not find the source of the light. The source was a demonic spirit.

Phobias: Phobias (Fears) of any type can be caused by spirit harassment. I once knew a man who had a spirit-induced terror of snakes. At night, spirits would appear on the floor surrounding his bed, in the form of writhing snakes. This man would cower in his bed throughout the night, afraid to even get up to go to the bathroom.

Press on chest: A form of harassment that appears to happen more often to men than to women, is pressure placed on the chest by spirits when the man is lying in bed. Pressure in the chest can originate from certain medical conditions, but pressing down on the chest is a favorite among harassing spirits.

I've had men describe this phenomenon as feeling as if a large man had placed his hands on their chest and was pressing down with all his strength. In some cases, they say they could feel both hands. On several occasions, I've encountered spirit groups who manifested by sitting on their victim's chest.

Psychic Visions: People who experience psychic dreams and visions often believe this is a gift from God. Given that the Bible says prophecies will cease, I made a point of addressing any demonic spirit who'd been giving prophetic visions or dreams to any of the people I worked with who claimed to have a gift of prophecy. In each and every case, demonic spirits manifested. When the spirits were cast away through God in Jesus' name, the prophetic dreams and visions ceased.

Queasy stomach with or without vomiting or diarrhea is a particularly unpleasant form of harassment. One woman who lived in a "haunted house" was throwing up everything she put in her mouth. When she contacted me it was because her young son was being scratched by a spiritual entity at night, and her husband was being harassed by having an invisible stinky armpit thrust in his face.

It had never occurred to this woman that her inability to hold food down and the resulting unnatural weight loss could be the result of harassment. But when we addressed any spirits who might be responsible, there was a manifestation. We cast the spirits away through God in Jesus' name, and from that night on there was no further vomiting. When the stinky armpit spirits were cast away, the perspiration odor vanished with them. Scratches disappeared within minutes after the spirits who'd scratched the woman's young son had been cast away in Jesus' name.

Racing heart: I have worked with several harassment victims who've been to one doctor after another to try to find the cause of an erratic heartbeat or racing heart. While these problems usually have a legitimate medical cause, the ones these people had were caused by demonic harassment. The key factor was that these people had used Ouija Boards at some point in their lives, and were involved in other seemingly innocent aspects of the occult such as psychic readings and/or dream catchers, all of which open the door to demonic harassment.

Rage is a form of harassment I encountered over and over again when I had my ministry. I'm not just referring to rage in men. I'm talking about rage in men, women, and children – even in infants and pets! And I'm not just talking about ordinary anger. I'm talking about the kind of anger that often leads to violence. When doing spirit cast aways, I address these as Rage and Spirits of Rage.”

An interesting side note is that sometimes spirits of rage would cause their victims to feel rage toward me when we were working together by phone. They would try to get their victims to hang up the phone before we had finished what we'd started. If their victims refused to hang up on me, sometimes the spirits would sever the connection and or hang up the phone for them..

Rain in the house: One of the most interesting phenomena I've encountered had to do with an harassment victim who had decided to plant a flower garden, and was googling flowers on her computer. Her young daughter made a sound of some sort that caused the mother to turn and look. When she turned back toward her computer monitor, there on the screen was a page from my website: “Contact Stacie.”

The woman figured this was the work of God. She contacted me, and told me her story. You may find this difficult to believe, but her entire family witnessed the bizarre phenomenon, and it was not simply a one-time occurrence. Bear in mind that when this phenomenon would occur, it was not raining outside, and there were no plumbing leaks in the house. Yet rain would fall from the air above Marcia any time she sat down at her computer! It would soak her hair, her skin, and her clothing. But not a single drop would touch her chair or the floor beneath it.

Raise or Lower Temperature of food, cooking oils, liquids, a room, an animal, or a human being. If you read my true story Betrayed by Her Guardian Angel, you may recall the scene in which my husband and I were trying to fondue, and harassing spirits kept reducing the oil from boiling to room temperature.

Rape (simulated): Spirits of Incubus and Succubus often simulate rape of both men and women. Men report having their muscles manipulated to put them in the position of a woman having intercourse and force their bodies to move up and down. Others report being sodomized while lying on their stomach. One woman I worked with reported having an unseen entity drag her across the room by her hair, and “rape” her behind the couch.

Fortunately, demons cannot actually rape a person. But the simulation can feel like the real thing. .

Another method of “demon rape” is for a demon to superimpose its face over the face of a man during a case of actual rape, or even during normal intercourse.

Rash: An example of a rash being caused by demonic harassment was my former chiropractor. He had an itchy rash on his neck that was driving him crazy and had not responded to medication or antibiotics. He knew about my ministry, and asked me if demonic harassment could be the cause of his rash.

Together we went through a very long list of things that can invite demonic harassment. Since several items on the list applied to him, we went through the necessary process of addressing each and every one, along with the spirits that came with it.

He could feel many of the spirits as they left through the top of his head. He described this as a lightening effect – not lightening as in electricity; rather lightening as in growing lighter. However, presumably to humiliate him since he was arrogant and prideful, some spirits left in the form of farts.

End result: the doctor's rash was cured.

Riding a person's back: I once saw a drawing in a Sylvia Browne book I had purchased for research (and have since thrown away), of an "angel" clinging to a man's shoulders and riding on his back. At the time, I thought this drawing was utterly ridiculous. But then I encountered an harassment victim who asked me if a spirit could ride on a person's back.

This man said he could feel something clinging to his shoulders, and it felt as if a heavy weight was plastered to his back. When we reached the point of doing cast aways, I addressed any demonic spirit or spirits clinging to this man's back. Spirits manifested. Once they'd been cast away, through God in Jesus' name, the man no longer felt the weight on his shoulders or back.

A little girl who was an harassment victim as a result of her mother's belonging to a tongues-speaking church, told me that when her mother took her to the church she saw the same spirits that had been cast away from her, now clinging to the backs of parishioners at the church.

Ringling in ears: Tinnitus is a legitimate result of long-term exposure to loud noise. It can result as a side effect of certain drugs, or as a symptom of certain diseases. But, like so many other symptoms, it can also be the result of demonic harassment. Or if a person had tinnitus from a legitimate cause, harassment can make it worse.

I've worked with many tinnitus victims who, once the tinnitus spirits had been cast away in Jesus' name, had no further problem with roaring or ringing sounds in their ears.

Rip: A teen-aged girl whose entire family were victims of severe harassment had a spirit that delighted in ripping her clothing. Every pair of pants she owned were ripped apart at the crotch. As soon as her mother would sew them up, the spirit would rip them again.

By the same token, a man I worked with who was a victim of spiritual sexual harassment had a group of spirits who would poke holes in the crotch of his underwear.

Rocking Chair: Chair rocks when no one is sitting in it (similar to the animated chair formerly included in my website).

When my husband was married before, he and his former wife visited her grandmother in Missouri. There was a rocking chair in the bedroom that would squeak when it rocked.

On the third night they were there, they were awakened during the night by the familiar squeak. They sat up in bed and looked toward the chair. It was rocking with no one in it! My husband ordered it in the name of Jesus to leave, and they saw a wispy smoke figure get up out of the chair and float across the room.

Run Dry: The same writer who had spirits who would break her pencil leads also had spirits who would cause her pens to “run dry” even when the refill was still full of ink.

S

Scratching: Often, harassment victims will awake with scratches on their bodies that weren't there when they went to bed. Typically, the first thing the harassment victim will suspect is that she has scratched herself during a dream. The natural solution is to cut her fingernails. If the scratches continue and the person has done things to invite demonic harassment, it's quite possible that a spirit is doing the scratching.

Scrunched rug: Two men who shared a house in the suburbs were being “haunted” by what they believed to be the spirit of their dead dog. Everyday when they returned home from work they would hear the phantom tick tick tick of Bowser's nails on the hardwood floor, and the rug in the entryway would be scrunched as if the dog had run through the house and skidded to a stop at the door.

After the men had sold the house, the new buyers were haunted by the feeling of a dog rubbing against their legs.

Severed heads, hands, arms, or legs: This is another favorite. Spirits who really want to give their victim a scare often appear in the form of a severed head hovering above the bed. Variations of this are severed hands at the harassment victim's throat. These phantom hands have been known to leave finger marks on the victim's skin.

Sexual Harassment: Men who have ever experimented with sex, been into porn, had a lap dance at any time in their lives, frequented strip clubs, or visited a club where cross dressers or female impersonators perform are often sexually harassed by incubus and succubus spirits who cause them to get involuntary erections, have involuntary ejaculations, tickle their testes, manipulate their muscles to put them into a female sexual position, or give them the illusion of being sodomized. Women may be harassed by sexual fondling by an unseen entity, the feeling that a sharp claw has been inserted, involuntary or inappropriate orgasm, or the illusion of rape.

Shadow Figures: I used to have a photo an harassment victim had sent me of shadow figures walking toward her. Spirits, by the way, can choose whether or not to appear in photos. These shadow figures appeared to be real hams. The woman had pictures of them moving about in several rooms.

I had a video of these shadow figures on my former website. When a photo of the shadow figures was lightened, detail of their faces showed up in the picture.

Sigh: Sighs are a type of harassment that may often go unnoticed. Sighs are such a natural part of our lives that – unless it happens dozens of times a day – we wouldn't even question the source.

I first became aware of this type of manifestation when people I was working with would heave a huge sigh as spirits were cast away, then say there'd been no spirit manifestation. After running into this numerous times, it dawned on me that the heavy sigh was the manifestation as the spirits were leaving.

Slapping: It's not uncommon for spirits to harass a person by slapping. A slap from an unseen entity will just come out of nowhere, sometimes leaving a handprint on the person's skin.

Sleep Disturbances: Insomnia, repetitive thoughts, senseless and illogical worries, nightmares and failure to feel sleepy are all frequent types of harassment. The same is true of pre-dream visions that play out in the harassment victim's mind like mini-films prior to the person's falling asleep.

Shooting pains: Pains of any type – shooting, dull, piercing, or burning – are a frequent form of spirit harassment. Once again, these pains can be mistaken for pain from natural causes. That's why harassment victims often don't suspect what's happening.

Slashing: One lady who was a victim of severe demonic harassment had an oil painting on her wall that was under glass, in a heavy frame. Harassing spirits slashed the painting. This woman lived alone, and there had been no sign of forced entry. She said the picture was somehow “sealed” in the frame, and she couldn’t have removed it if she’d wanted to. Yet spirits had slashed the painting underneath the glass. An harassment victim I had worked with reported that spirits who had come with a family member who came to visit had slashed her favorite pair of leather boots. This woman did a cast away herself, and experienced a manifestation of sneezing as the spirits left.

And the boy I told you about earlier who’d had the dumpster lid slammed on his fingers (along with other forms of harassment) saw spirits who were cast away from him claw his mother’s bedroom door, slashing the wood as if the spirits had claws. This is not a typical manifestation.

Sneeze: Sneezing fits may be related to a cold or allergies, but can also be a form of harassment or a manifestation when spirits are cast away..

Songs in head: Have you ever experienced having a song play over and over and over again in your head till you think it’s going to drive you crazy? If you’ve done anything to open the door, it’s possible that this is spirit harassment.

I’ve even worked with harassment victims who’ve had instrumental music playing in their heads from a local radio station. This is the result of spirits amplifying radio signals for only the harassment victim to hear.

When I was recently working with a woman who was the victim of severe harassment, the phone conversation was interrupted by loud music as if a radio had suddenly been turned on. I couldn't hear her, and she couldn't hear me. The music ended as suddenly as it had started, and the phone connection was broken. I tried to call the woman back, but the call would not go through.

When I addressed the top strong man of any spirits involved, there was a definite manifestation. I asked God in Jesus' name, if it be His will, to make the spirits make a full disclosure of what had just occurred. The top strong man said they had amplified radio signals in the air around us to drown out our conversation, then drained the cell phone battery of the woman's phone so I wouldn't be able to re-establish the phone connection.

Spasm: Painful muscle spasms unrelated to medical or chiropractic problems can be and often are a result of demonic harassment. This is one both my husband and I have experienced – particularly on special occasions when it's important to feel our best..

Spiders and Ants: For the most part, all demonic harassment is unpleasant. But one of the more unpleasant types is the feeling of spiders or ants crawling on one's skin when no spiders or ants are present. As with so many types of harassment, this can also be a reaction to medication.

Spill: Spirits like to cause people to spill their drinks on furniture, carpet, or clothing – especially if the item in question happens to be a favorite dress or shirt.

Spitting: I've only encountered this one once during a phone session with an harassment victim.. A spirit actually spat in the lady's face. She had to pause what we were doing to get a tissue to wipe the spittle off her cheek.

Squeeze: When I was working with a man through Skype, I could actually see the pain in his eyes when the spirits would squeeze his skull, wrists, and ankles. This man was not possessed, but he had hundreds of spirits taking turns harassing him, with some talking constantly in his head, and the rest harassing him by squeezing. He would feel as if he had a band around his forehead, and rubber bands around his wrists and ankles. The squeezing pain would move from one location to another as if the harassing spirits were playing hopscotch. I worked with this man daily for several weeks before the last of the squeezing spirits were finally gone.

Stutter: Spirits can cause even the most coherent person to stutter or constantly repeat themselves.

Tatter: Tatter is a spirit word for what spirits often do to the food and/or supplements used by harassment victims. It means causing malabsorption of vitamins and minerals, lessening or reversing the effect of diet aids, causing weight gain from foods and drinks that would normally be harmless, and/or causing allergies to items the harassment victim consumes..

Toys: Often spirits will play with a child's toys. A woman I once worked with told me her spirit "friend" used to play jacks with her when she was a child.

Another said the spirit in her room used to roll her ball across the floor. Young children whose parents have dabbled in the occult often complain of spirits taking their toys away from them and hiding them.

Several people I've worked with have had mechanical toys set off in their house when no one was near the toys – even when the toys had no battery.

Tripping: Believe it or not, there are actually spirits who appear to specialize in tripping. The lady who lived in the haunted house with the smelly armpit spirits and the spirits that used to make her throw up also had tripping spirits that liked to trip her and make her fall. After the tripping spirits were cast away, tripping was no longer an issue.

After having surgery several years ago, I became the victim of tripping spirits. It was more than a year before I realized what was happening. It turned out these spirits had come to me with cadaverous tissue that had been inserted in my body during surgery. After the tripping spirits were cast away, tripping was no longer a problem.

Ugly face: When I was working with a woman who was a victim of severe harassment, one of the problems was that spirits were superimposing ugly faces in front of her husband's face so that Debbie couldn't bear to look at him. They had nearly succeeded in breaking this couple up simply by superimposing an ugly face between Debbie and her husband. It took many cast aways before all the spirits were gone who'd been involved in this. In the process of the cast aways, some of these ugly face spirits came to me without my knowledge. They superimposed an ugly face in front of mine when my husband and I were sitting across from one another at McDonald's. Fortunately, he recognized what was going on, and we were able to cast the spirits away through God in Jesus' name.

Undulate: One of the more unusual cases I worked with involved a man who lived in an apartment where the walls appeared to undulate! It was like living in a carnival fun house, only this man wasn't having fun. He was scared half to death.

Vince drove a delivery truck for a living. Everywhere he went, he saw people being held captive – people in cars, trucks, houses, and places of business. For reasons Vince couldn't understand, these people were being held prisoner and were calling to him for help. Faces in the windows were moving their mouths in silent pleas for Vince to come and rescue them.

Across the street from Vince's apartment was an R.V. dealership. On the lot was a van in which several people could be seen pounding on the windows and screaming for help. One window was partially open, and a woman's leg was protruding as if she'd tried to climb out and gotten stuck.

Unable to stand it any longer, Vince decided to try to rescue the prisoners in the van. As he started across the street, the people waved their arms frantically. But by the time Vince reached the van, the spirits posing as humans had disappeared, only to reappear when he got back to his apartment. Vince knew now that he was either going crazy, or he had spirits in his life. He began carrying sage in his truck in an effort to ward them off. All that this accomplished was to almost get him fired because when his boss saw the sage, he thought it was marijuana! That's when Vince contacted me.

The night we went through the necessary steps prior to doing cast aways, Vince's walls appeared to undulate. In and out, in and out...

As the spirits were cast away through God in Jesus' name (including the ones that had come as a result of using sage for protection), the shades on the windows rattled and the entire apartment shook. Then all was quiet and the undulation stopped. Vince ran to the window to look at the van across the street. The dealership "captives" were gone.

Untie Shoes: Hard as it may be to believe, there appear to be spirits who specialize in untying shoe laces. I discovered this one quite by chance.

I wear tennis shoes most of the time, and I had never had a problem keeping them tied until after I'd begun working with a particular harassment victim. Suddenly, my shoes began coming untied – even when I was sitting on the couch watching a movie! This went on for two or three weeks before it finally dawned on me that this could be a form of harassment. I did a cast away, and there was a large manifestation, but the problem wasn't totally solved.

One day my husband actually saw my shoe come untied while I was standing still!! I used my newly acquired knowledge to break protective e shells and spiritual smoke screens in Jesus' name, then did another cast away. From that point on, my shoes haven't come untied without a logical explanation.

Urge to kill: This is a particularly vicious type of harassment that I believe is responsible for many hate crimes today.

I worked with a man who was overwhelmed by the urge to kill a friend who had asked him to repair something in her home. He actually envisioned the scene of crushing her skull with his hammer and seeing her blood and brains spill onto the floor. (I said it was vicious.) A voice in his head kept repeating “Hit her with your hammer. Crush her skull. Then kill her daughter too.”

When this man returned home and his wife’s dog ran out to greet him, he envisioned killing the dog with his electric saw. The voice in his head shouted “Kill it! Kill the f---ing dog!” But it didn’t stop there. This man loved his wife more than life itself. Yet he had visions in her presence of strangling her or burying a knife in her chest or back. “Stab her!” the voice would urge. “Kill the f---ing bi-ch!” He was actually afraid to be in the kitchen with his wife, due to the urge to pick up a knife. When the killing spirits were cast away from this man, through God in Jesus’ name, the urge to kill no longer existed.

A woman I worked with for many months told me a spirit attempted to make her pick up a butcher knife and stab her daughter in the back. Her hand actually moved toward a knife on the kitchen counter. She told her daughter to leave the room, then said an anti-harassment prayer before casting the murdering spirits away. (This woman had cut her own links to the occult, and we’d done cast aways of all the spirits involved. But due to the fact that she was “one with her husband,” the spirits he was constantly inviting into his life through his addiction to porn were coming to her as well

It is my belief that when a woman drowns her own children or puts them in a bath of bleach then swears voices in her head told her to do it, there's a very good chance she's telling the truth. When a serial killer kills because voices tell him to do it, I believe him as well. It is my unshakable belief that these people are either possessed or are victims of severe demonic harassment, and that if the possessing and/or harassing spirits had been cast out, they wouldn't have committed the crimes that put them in prison for life or sent them to death row.

Spirits who harass in this way go by the name of Killers.

Vibrating bed: I first heard of this one when my stepson was spending the night at our home before we'd succeeded in breaking free of the spirit realm. He came running through the hallway, pale as a ghost. "The bed in your spare room is vibrating!"

That was the first I'd heard of vibrating a bed as a form of harassment. But I've encountered it many times since. As a matter of fact, I experienced it myself when "vibration spirits" came to me from a woman I was working with. The vibration of my bed was subtle, but it was definitely there. Just to test, I said an anti-harassment prayer. When the prayer made it stop, I knew it was harassment. I did a cast away through God in Jesus' name, and there was no further vibration.

Do not ever attempt to do a spirit cast away if you have any unsevered links to the occult. (By unsevered links, I mean things such as visits to a psychic, Tarot readings, attempts at divination, etc., that you have not said prayers rejecting and denouncing. Each item must be addressed individually.) To cast a group of spirits away when they have a right to be there would allow them to return and bring more spirits with them.

Voices in head: This is one of the most stubborn types of harassment to get rid of, mainly because it typically involves so many harassing spirits, and they hide in so many ways. Harassment victims with chattering spirits are often diagnosed as Schizophrenic and confined to mental institutions where they in turn acquire more spirits of Schizophrenia.

A man I worked with through Skype had voices chattering constantly in his head to the point that he feared he was insane. Arthur checked himself into a mental hospital where he was diagnosed as Schizophrenic.

While Arthur was there, he was placed in a room with a man in a wheelchair who appeared to have voices talking to him. This man was smoking one cigarette after another and tossing the cigarette butts on the floor. The thought occurred to Arthur that he and this man were one and the same. Both of them were hearing voices, and both had been diagnosed with Schizophrenia. He just hadn't regressed to the point of becoming catatonic as this man in the wheelchair apparently had. Could what Arthur saw in this pathetic man be his future?

When Arthur approached the man in an effort to help, and knelt down to pick up the cigarettes the man had dropped, a spirit spoke to him in a threatening voice: “Get away from him. Leave him alone.”

Arthur now knew that he wasn't insane. These were spirits talking in his head. That's when he went on the internet and contacted me. The rest is history. Arthur is now doing fine.

And finally, a woman I worked with who had been diagnosed as Schizophrenic and confined to a mental institution then released, had legions of sprits who called themselves “Schizophrenic spirits from ancestors in Scotland” manifest. This woman was unaware of any Scottish ancestors. But when she went on the internet and researched her ancestry, she learned that one of her grandfather's ancestors had lived in Scotland.

Often harassment victims hear the sound of a familiar voice calling their name when the person who appears to be speaking is not there. Nor is he anywhere nearby.

W

Wind: Spirits can actually make wind blow through a house when all the doors and windows are closed. You may have seen this one in the movies. But trust me, it's for real in many cases.

Often harassing spirits will cause a gentle breeze to blow across a person's face or lift the person's hair.

I once knew a woman whose spirit guides had convinced her she controlled the wind. Thelma spent hours everyday charting the world's winds. When she felt it was necessary, she would order a change of direction, and the winds would appear to obey her!

In reality, the spirits Thelma was involved with were simply causing a wind to blow in her vicinity, and changing the direction at her command so she'd believe the hoax.

Windows rattle: During the course of spirit cast aways, spirits sometimes manifest by rattling windows. This is not a typical type of harassment, but it does occur in rare cases.

Words jump off the page: The same woman I wrote about who had images jumping out of her T.V. also had words jumping off the page when she tried to read. Prior to becoming a victim of demonic harassment, she was an avid reader and movie buff. By causing the words and images to jump out, the spirits in effect deprived this woman of the two things she loved most to do: reading, and watching movies.

X-ray image: Children and adults alike are frequently harassed by having x-ray images of skeletons projected on their walls. The skeletons are often green in color. Sometimes they're dripping blood. The "projected image" may dance or act out a scary scene.

A little girl I worked with could see the spirits in her home because the spirits chose to show themselves to her. Several of these spirits looked, according to this little girl, “like an x-ray” wearing a suit.

Y

Yawn: Like sighing, yawning is a form of harassment that goes undetected because it seems so natural. Harassment victims often yawn when spirits are cast away.

Yell: Spirits can cause a person to yell or talk very loudly when he thinks he’s talking in a normal voice.

Z

Zap with electricity: When I told an harassment victim she needed to get rid of the blessed crucifix she’d been using for protection (because anything that has had a power assigned is automatically of the occult), she was zapped by an electrical charge when she tried to pick the crucifix up.

Note from Stacie:

If any of the harassments you’ve read about in this e-book seem to apply to you – if you experienced spirit manifestations when reading about certain types of harassment or felt as if you were reading your own story – then you need to take steps to break free.

My e-book Things That Invite Demonic Spirits explains what things in our lives open the door for demonic spirits to enter. My e-book What Demonic Spirits Don’t Want You to Know; What Traditional Deliverance Ministries Don't Tell You explains who and what harassing spirits are, what things open the doors for them to come in, and how to get them out of your life.

Both of these E-Books are available in pdf format through my website at staciespeilman.com, Both are also available through Amazon for the Kindle, and through Smashwords. The Smashwords edition is compatible with virtually all types of E-book Readers, including the Kindle.
